Molotov Rejects Compromise On Trieste, At Paris

Tells Peace Conference Compromise Decision On Trieste Not Acceptable
To Soviet

WILL FIGHT PLAN BEFORE BIG FOUR

By LEON PEARSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Oct. 9.—(INS)—
Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov today rejected the compromise decision for internationalization of Trieste at the Paris peace conference.

Molotov said the Russians will fight the decision in the Big Four council of foreign ministers.

The Russian statesman said in his denunciation that "hardly anything remains of democratic principles in the Trieste administration."

He also contended that the set-up provided under the French compromise provision amounts to "absolute power for the governor and disenfranchisement of the population."

Support Yugoslavs

The Soviets persistently had supported Yugoslav objections to internationalization of Trieste.

The only alternative left to Molotov was to go to a turn about on the Yugoslavs and adhere to the original agreement of the foreign ministers' council.

The Molotov declaration was not exactly surprising in view of the strong objections voiced again yesterday by a Yugoslav spokesman who said his nation would not sign the Italian treaty as long as the Trieste provision remained as drafted.

The Yugoslav stand indicated the possibility of a Soviet stand such as Molotov expressed since the delegate of the Belgrade government took the rostrum immediately after the return of Molotov from Moscow.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Street signs in the Croton Avenue district, especially north of Crawford avenue, present a rather unsightly appearance, Pa. News notes. The sign at the intersection of Croton avenue and Fleming Way is very illegible.

Three weeks from tomorrow and the boys and girls of the city will be celebrating Halloween night, with the youngsters going from door to door to get their usual handouts of apples, nuts and other goodies.

If there was any shower of meteors in the sky on Tuesday night, the cloudy condition prevented a view of the display in this locality, Pa. News discovered.

Rain and wind of the early morning brought down a huge amount of leaves from trees along the streets, it was evident this morning.

For some time a pillar on the west end of the diamond has been broken off. Yesterday's workmen repaired it, adding to the appearance of the park.

City workmen were seen busily cleaning up the leaves and trash on the diamond last evening. If persons having papers and other rubbish to discard would use the receptacles provided for such material, the diamond would be a sight to behold.

Little Damage Reported After Storm On Coast

Hurricane In Florida Area
Dissipated On Coast With Slight Damage

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 9.—(INS)—
A howling tropical disturbance, which for a time threatened Florida's rich citrus crop and unpicked cotton in Georgia and South Carolina, had dissipated on the Atlantic coast today with virtually no damage reported.

The storm, which hurtled at 100 miles an hour toward the rich west Florida coast Monday, caused heavy rains and gusty winds, but no appreciable damage.

After anxious hours of waiting throughout Monday night for the low which never came, resort cities along the Florida coast escaped virtually unscathed.

Mystery Develops

What happened to the lethal force which caused the anxiety remains a mystery—as is the case of many disturbances originating in the Caribbean.

Florida's west coast, as well as the Atlantic seaboard, had prepared for the worst. Thousands of residents in the exposed areas fled to inland points of safety.

Virtually all airlines operating in the area today announced that regular flights which had been suspended because of the storm had been resumed. Military craft flown from the threatened area were returning to their bases today.

Unemployed In Rioting In Rome

Mob Invades Italian Ministry Of Interior—Exchanges Shots With Police

OUTBREAK COSTS SEVERAL LIVES (BULLETIN)

ROME, Oct. 9.—(INS)—One of the most savage riots in Rome's recent history cost several lives today when a mob of 20,000 unemployed invaded the Italian ministry of the interior and exchanged shots with police.

The demonstration was staged in protest against decision of the Italian government to release 56,000 public workers from their jobs as an economy measure.

It was timed to coincide with the arrival from Palermo of Premier Alcide DeGasperi. Heavy reinforcements in armored cars finally subdued the riot.

Vice-Premier Pietro Nenni and other cabinet ministers appeared on the balcony of the ministry building in an effort to placate the demonstrators.

Police Forced To Fire

But police were forced to fire from the windows and go into direct action against the mob before it could be dispersed. A delegation of the protesting workers finally was admitted into the building for a hearing.

Premier DeGasperi himself was in the Viminale palace, which houses the interior ministry, when the assault began. He did not make a public appearance.

Observers reported the real rioting started when a brigade of shock police started to arrest some demonstrators found in possession of bombs and grenades.

The death toll was not learned immediately but the wounded were placed above 50.

Guffey's Statement Political Slander Declares Governor

Governor Edward Martin passed the direct line to U. S. Senator Joseph P. Guffey Tuesday afternoon during a reception for the state wide candidates of the Republican party in The Castleton Hotel.

Answering Sen. Guffey's charge that "a tacit understanding or a definite deal" existed between Republican leadership and Communists, Governor Martin said, "he lies and he knows he lies. He knows he is departing from the truth and is substituting political slander for the truth."

The governor continued: "Is it not strange that a man who has served twelve years in the United States Senate and has posed as a great liberal has already forgotten that his party platform offers not a single word of repudiation or condemnation of Communism?"

"Those who have followed Senator Guffey's career have not forgotten that in 1938 he was the author of a resolution which would have expelled from the Senate anyone who had been in the company of a Communist."

Attempt Of State Official To
'Mace' Employees Is Charged
By Senator Guffey

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—(INS)—
A spokesman for Gov. Edward Martin today dodged comment on U. S. Sen. Joseph P. Guffey's charge that an attempt has been made by a state official to mace employees.

A copy of Guffey's letter containing the allegation had been received, the spokesman said, and sent by special messenger to the governor at New Castle.

The spokesman would not discuss what action the governor was likely to take.

Guffey leveled the charge at Chairman H. N. Cobb of the Milk Control commission, and accompanied his letter with a copy of the official's communication to employees.

Cobb admitted writing the circular letter to workers under his supervision soliciting money for the Republican campaign.

Round-The-World Flight Of B-29s Is Being Projected

"Great White Fleet" May Make New Demonstration
Of Airpower
Possibilities

NORMAL AIR ROUTES WILL BE FOLLOWED

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Washington circles today viewed the projected round-the-world flight of a "great white fleet" of B-29 superfortresses as another important indication of U. S. determination to employ airpower in the pursuit of its foreign policy.

State department spokesmen made it clear that there "probably would be no objection" to the army air forces proposal for the launching of the historic air mission.

First Word Of Plan

First word of the A. A. F. plan came at a special conference called by Assistant Secretary of War for Air Stuart Symington.

Washington sources believed that the army air proposal was a logical follow-up to recent speed and distance record-breaking trans-Polar and trans-Pacific flights. These were viewed as impressive displays of American airpower in action.

It was maintained that the B-29 mission, reminiscent of President Theodore Roosevelt's "great white fleet" of nearly four decades ago, would be a forceful on-the-spot interpretation of United States air strength.

Symington, in announcing the AAF's decision to undertake the pioneering global journey subject to full state department concurrence, made a point of advising reporters that:

"The air forces regards itself as an important instrument of policy. It was believed that this undertaking of the air forces' global mission in view of the recent stationing in the Mediterranean of substantial United States naval units.

The air secretary, asked if the big bombers were going to carry either real or simulated atomic bombs on their round-the-world mission, replied swiftly and forcefully:

"No sir."

But he reiterated again that the super-bombers of the army were considered as integral "instruments of American policy."

The state department, pressed for its reaction to the Symington announcement, said that there had been no formal communications between the war and state secretariats but that it could "see no reason" for not giving the mission approval and support.

Proposed route of the big aircraft will follow normal air transport command networks and will probably include Germany. The exact plan, however, is to be worked out by Gen. Carl A. Spaatz, commander of the AAF.

Tuesday, five year old Judith White, 1213 Randolph street, ran, when called by a sister, into the path of his truck which hit the girl at Randolph and Lathrop streets. He wanted to summon a doctor, he reported, but the family said they would do so. He said the girl did not appear injured. Thompson said he noticed children in the street and was operating slowly at the time of the accident.

Sees United Action Big Need Of Church

Stating that the Christian church is the first and only worldwide fellowship of any sort, whether economic, political, social, or religious, Dr. Henry Smith Leiper, American secretary for the World Council of Churches, opened the 84th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sunday School association in the Cathedral auditorium Tuesday evening.

Call To Awaken

Dr. Leiper's address was a call to Christians of all denominations to awaken to the need for united action on the part of the church, which has the only answer to the volcanic problems now threatening the world's peace.

Approximately 1,500 delegates had arrived in time for the opening session, with about 1,000 more expected to attend the general session this morning and the sectional meetings this afternoon.

Music by the Westminster college a cappella choir and the Westminster Singers added special beauty to the service, with Charles I. Sager conducting and James W. Evans accompanying the group.

Group singing of well-known hymns was led by Dr. Clyde W. Meadows of Chambersburg who will be the song leader throughout the conference. Mrs. Meadows was the accompanist, and the worship leader.

Pittsburgh Power Strike In 16th Day

PITTSBURGH, Pa. Oct. 9.—(INS)—
Pittsburgh's metropolitan area today struggled to keep pace with the industrial world despite the 16-day-old power strike that has heaped inconveniences on thousands of residents and has virtually strangled business.

While residents in the 817 square mile affected area still are receiving electricity, they are limited to what they can use. Homes are permitted to burn only one light, house-wire have been asked to refrain from using all electrical appliances.

Business firms, dependent on commercial electricity, have closed down. Many stores are dark and the majority of office buildings permitted only a few tenants to enter.

Sunday Wash Day

Housewives have changed wash days to Sunday because the supply of electricity is more plentiful. Ironing is being done on a limited basis.

Preparing For Decisions On Nazi Appeals

Allied Control Council De-liberates On Appeals Of Convicted Nazi
Leaders

BERLIN, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The Allied Control Council, last court of appeal for Nazis convicted by the International Military Tribunal, recessed today at 12:45 p. m. after their initial consideration of appeals.

The council was due to reconvene at 3 p. m. for further deliberations on the fate of the top Nazis condemned to death and those sentenced to prison terms.

Officials maintained strict silence regarding their deliberations. The control council, made up of Gen. Joseph T. McNamery, American commander in the European theater; French Lieut. Gen. Joseph Pierre Koenig, Soviet Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky, and British Air Marshal Sir Sholto Douglas, constitutes the last court of appeal.

These four men, meeting today, will decide whether there are any grounds for commuting death sentences or lessening prison terms of the convicted Nazis.

The fact that they will have to go through extensive briefs prepared by defense attorneys made it probable that their deliberations will take at least two days. The prospect, therefore, was that no final decision will be known until Friday.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 9.—(INS)—

Youths Of 18 Must Still Register On Attaining Draft Age

Although youths attaining their 18th birthday are not subject to call for military service, they are not relieved of the obligation of registering immediately. It was stated today by an official of one of the Selective Service Boards here.

It has been found recently that quite a number of youths have been lax about coming in to register immediately following the attaining of draft age. There is a severe penalty attached for failure to register at once, it is pointed out, and those who neglect this obligation may find themselves subject to prosecution.

Car Dealers Pledge Support During Car Inspection Period

Over 300 Attend Meeting Tuesday Evening At State Highway Garage

At a meeting held Tuesday evening, in the state highway garage, Wilmington avenue, over 300 local automobile dealers, independent repair shop proprietors, and other automotive merchants gathered in cooperation with the governor's highway safety program in connection with periodic motor vehicle, equipment inspections, the next of which begins, November 1.

E. W. Reiber acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced S. H. Parker, representative of the Pennsylvania Automotive Association, who told of the recent conference held by the national and state governments, showing the necessity for prompt action if motor vehicle accidents are to be curtailed, and explained the important part played by inspection stations in the program.

He stressed the importance of careful inspection of all motor vehicles and of getting the public to get their car in early during the period, other than waiting for the usual "gang up" of cars at the close of the period.

Station owners were lauded for their far sightedness in inspection and the fact was pointed out that Pennsylvania owned cars were in far better condition than those of the states where there is no inspection laws.

er was Dr. Edgar C. Smith of Philadelphia, who will also serve for the rest of the meetings.

H. E. Cole Presides

Henry E. Cole of Pittsburgh, a member of the board of directors, presided during the first session, and at the close, the prayer and benediction were given by Rev. J. Calvin Rose of the Second United Presbyterian church here.

Speaking of the new power which a world council will have to keep nations in line with the policies which will make for peace, Dr. Leiper declared that the world still lacked a "community sense" and that this sense must come through a change in thought, attitude, and atmosphere. It is intangible, but necessary, he added, explaining that even in time of strikes, communities will not go too far in hurting some people because they know they will hurt all of the people; and through the unity of nations has not yet realized this.

"The Christian church is a community, and it should learn to act like one!" Dr. Leiper stated. "In the atomic world, an atomized—divided—church places the one hope of the world in jeopardy. However, the greatest miracle is not that the atom can be split, but that there is a force strong enough to hold it together. This 'togetherness' can also save the church, and through the church, the world community."

terial, it would not only leave those men with time to do other things about the parks of New Castle but would keep the city looking neater.

Drinking fountains of the city, which have been inoperative for the past few weeks, have been almost repaired quite a few downtown pedestrians during the warm spell which the city has been experiencing. The thirsty foot travelers discover much to their dismay, that the faucets have been removed.

Shipment that would have received only passing notice a few months ago was the center of interest at the Railway Express office Tuesday. Office personnel hungrily eyed a fat porker which was being sent out of the city.

September Proves Another Dry Month

September proved another dry month, with the precipitation far below the normal, Baxter F. Johnson, U. S. Weather observer here reports. The deficiency in precipitation during the month amounted to 1.85 inches. The temperature, on the other hand was almost normal, being one-tenth of a degree per day below the normal for the month.

The mean maximum temperature was 79.7 degrees, and the mean minimum was 48.6 degrees, the mean or average, being 64.2 degrees. The highest temperature was 92 degrees on the 20th, and the lowest was 38 degrees on the 3rd, 4th and 15th of the month.

The total precipitation was 1.16 inches, which included traces of snow. The greatest in 24 hours, was .29 inches on the 20th of the month. Days with .01 or more of precipitation were nine. Days clear were 15, partly cloudy, 13, and cloudy 2.

Program booklets for the year have been distributed to members and their attention was called to the variety of interesting programs scheduled for the months ahead by the program committee, Mrs. James R. Green, Mrs. Carl Cramer and Miss Marion Campbell.

November meeting will be a guest night program with Dr. Robert N. Montgomery, president of Muskingum college, as speaker. In December there will be a Christmas party.

Miss Camille Trivilina, sister of the groom, served as maid of honor wearing a yellow marquisette gown with blue accessories and carried red roses. Linda DeJandro, niece of the groom, was flower girl.

William Trivilina served his brother as best man.

At a lovely candlelight ceremony performed Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church, Miss Kathryn Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Davis of 414 Laurel boulevard, became the bride of Robert P. McCann, 1208 Albert street, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James W. McCann.

Vows were exchanged before an altar embanked with white flowers, palms and ferns, with Rev. Oliver W. Hurst officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a wedding gown of ivory satin fashioned en-train, with a high jeweled neckline and bodice with tiny covered buttons down the back. Her fingertip length veil fell from a tiara of seed pearls and she carried a white Bible with a marker of gardenias and streamers.

Miss Shirley Anthony, as maid of honor, wore a pink net gown over taffeta, and Miss Marmie Hawk, junior bridesmaid, wore an identical gown of blue net and taffeta. Both wore headresses to match their gowns, and carried colonial bouquets.

For a half hour preceding the professional Mrs. W. H. Lukart played a prelude of organ music.

Blow To Confidence

It would be useless to pretend that public confidence in the safety of trans-Atlantic flight has not been seriously shaken by the two tragic crashes which have occurred, in quick succession. The first accident, in which many of the passengers were saved, might have been forgotten quickly if the flights had continued on their routine course. But the second, the worst disaster in the history of commercial aviation, has underscored the perils still connected with this form of transportation.

In their own defense the airlines may argue, with sound logic, that the number of fatal accidents is extremely small when offset by the tremendous number of miles being flown. Ocean flying is infinitely safer than it was before the war brought better, longer-range planes and vast experience in this field of aviation.

There is every likelihood that public confidence will recover from the shock of these two latest disasters. The flights will go on. There are still plenty of air-minded people who are willing to accept whatever risks may be involved in trans-Atlantic flying for the advantage of swift and easy passage across the ocean.

But airline and government officials have an obligation to do everything in their power to discover the causes of these crashes and to take every possible precaution to prevent other accidents from occurring. Aviation will suffer severely if such accidents continue or if there is the slightest suspicion of lax operation in a service on which so many lives depend.

Fifty Years Of R. F. D.

In the first week of October, 1896—fifty years ago—four experimental rural mail routes were started in Jefferson County, W. Va., the home county of William L. Wilson, who at that time was Postmaster General. Fifteen days later two routes were authorized for Bartholomew county, Indiana, one to originate at Hope and the other at Hartsville. The Hope route started on time with Raleigh Norman as the first carrier, but the Hartsville route did not begin operation until the following year.

Mr. Norman made his first deliveries with a horse and buggy. Albert Hitchcock, who carried the mail from Hope in later years, is credited with designing the first boxed-in rural mail wagon. Necessity really became the mother of invention in his case and he worked out the details of the wagon in an effort to keep from freezing.

Credit for the establishment of these early routes in Indiana goes to George W. Cooper of Columbus, a Congressman who made a successful plea for some trial routes in his district. He selected Hawcreek township because it was a perfect square. Mr. Cooper was the father of Kent Cooper, now general manager of the Associated Press.

Successful operation of these early routes in West Virginia and Indiana was one of the factors that caused Congress to expand the service.

Across The Arctic Ice Cap

Although the non-stop flight of the Navy's Truident Turtle last week from Perth, Australia, to Columbus, O., was slightly longer, the hop of 10,854 statute miles of the Pacusan Dreamboat from Honolulu to Cairo possesses certain important points of difference.

This is because of the trans-Arctic route the Dreamboat took on a great circle that skirted over Greenland, Iceland, western Europe and the Mediterranean area at an average speed of 240 nautical miles an hour. General Carl Spaatz, chief of the Army Air Forces, appropriately called this long flight "epicurean."

General Spaatz, diplomatically, did not refer to the war possibilities of Polar flying, but some unnamed American military experts remarked that the big B-29's air journey more than proves the contention that this country is vulnerable to air attack across the vast ice cap at the top of the world.

The progress of our aerial defenses is exemplified by the B-29s and the bigger B-36s. But, as with the case of the atomic bomb, the best defense for the Nation will be achieved by a system of world order which will make their use against an enemy less likely or, it may be hoped, forever unnecessary.

Behind Textbook Shortage

There is bitter irony in the fact that, due in considerable part to strikes and accompanying shortages in raw materials, there aren't nearly enough textbooks to fill the needs of the huge army of young people, including thousands of veterans, who are swarming to our colleges and universities this year.

At least 18,000,000 textbooks, it is estimated, should be available to students in higher educational institutions. But the peak obtainable in 1946-47 will be only about 13,500,000.

The paper shortage is partly to blame for the lack of school books. Publishers were unable, during the war years, to build up stock piles. In addition, printing machinery is scarce and so are experienced workers.

The New York truck strike has cut down delivery of books from binderies. The shipping strikes have reduced the receipt of foreign-produced paper.

As in so many other cases, what is most needed for an adequate supply of textbooks is a return, on a national scale, to a sound economy—with a minimum of strikes and strike-caused shortages and the freest possible flow of essential raw materials.

When asked what he thought about the things that have happened to Henry Wallace recently, a friend of ours remarked that President Truman decontrolled him.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Election Campaign Of Utmost Importance

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Here in our own country is where the issue of our time will be decided. That is the conviction you bring back from even the briefest visit to Europe.

This is the testing ground. This is the arena where the decisive struggle will take place. If we hold a fairly steady balance here in America, if we show the world that our system has continuing vitality and can produce the rewards and satisfactions all men seek, then there is a good chance of maintaining a stable world in which the true values of the past will survive.

But if we are torn by internal strife, if we allow our economic system to go completely out of control in a boom-and-bust cycle, then the hope for a decent world order will be long deferred—if indeed, it does not die. The next few years may well be decisive.

Important Election
The current election campaign is likely to have greater importance in the perspective of history than it has for most of us today. I have but short space to tell you that we have taken me into the heart of Europe because of the sense of urgency that every American abroad must feel about what is happening in his own country. Over there, you find yourself constantly looking back over your shoulder. Europeans themselves are preoccupied with what is happening across the Atlantic.

Often, as at the present moment, we seem determined to put our worst foot forward. The impression you get from 4000 miles away is of a vast centrifugal force whirling everything into disorder and strife. That impression is, of course, false. In reflecting the strikes and the conflicts of a troubled postwar period, the mirror of the news inevitably distorts and magnifies the image. But the truth is painful enough. We are not using the great bargaining power of our productive strength in anything like the degree to which it could be employed.

Deliberately Offend
Sometimes it almost seems that, in little ways and in big ways, we deliberately try to offend our friends and admirers in Europe. Thus, business men and students who are eager to come to America are confronted with a maze of bureaucratic red tape in applying for a visa. This ridiculously complicated system succeeds only in being an irritant, since anyone who wanted to come here with evil intentions could in any event circumvent the system. We treat arriving foreigners to a customs examination that is sloppy and inefficient.

In larger reference, it seems to me that we have made only feeble and limited use of our power of rehabilitation in striking Europe. We intend to lay down a moral and political yardstick and to say, "now if you measure up to this, you will get help from us, but if you do not, then you get no help." Perhaps if we had held out the carrot of help first, the reluctant donkey might have moved along the path we approved.

The need to make America strong, worthy of world leadership, is obvious in so many ways. It is the kind of competition with Soviet Russia that can benefit people everywhere—to show that ours is an easy way the most satisfying way of life.

Out of the swamps of ignorance and prejudice, troglodytes such as Hamilton Fish are rising once again to preach a "crusade" against communism. That is the surest way, it seems to me, to create communists. It is also a way to create a fascist imitation of the kind of brawling and street fighting that, in Germany, led to Hitler.

Disserve By Wallace
It is against the need of making America a strong and better and happier place in which to live that Henry Wallace has, in my opinion, performed a great disservice. There was so much we might have done. Instead, he has helped to sharpen an ideological dispute that can only distract and divert Americans from what must be the real goal.

From the perspective of Europe, our country is seen to be a land of indefinite potentialities. It is not merely our natural heritage. It is not even our far-flung technology, with all that has been created from it. Above all, it is the fact that we have not surrendered to tired political dogmatism which in Europe seem to shut off all avenues to the future.

There are those in America who are eager to sharpen the ideological dispute. They would fan the flames that have destroyed so much already. They see the world from a narrow ideological perspective. On the one hand, are those who would retreat to a past that never existed; on the other hand, are those who would superimpose an arbitrary political pattern, crushing out all differences and distinctions. They are both enemies of America.

WASHINGTON—W. Averell Harriman takes over as secretary of commerce. "Stable and rising production is the only way to maintain a high level of employment as well as to have available more goods for the security and better life of everyone."

PARIS—Premier Jan Christian Smuts tells the peace conference: "People want to be fed and housed and clothed, to be secured against unemployment and sickness and all the other miseries of our daily life to be secured against their fears and the fear of war. One Man's Opinion

A University of Minnesota prof says that a good wife is worth $69,000 to a farmer. . . . A farmer's daughter used to be worth that to any comedian.

But styles in gags change. . . . There was a time you could say "Here's one about a traveling salesman" and people would choke on their chewing gum.

Now if you said "Here's one about a traveling salesman" they'd crowd around to ask. . . . "What was he selling. . . . we can use some!"

Even styles in comedians change. . . . I hear that since H. V. Kaltenborn bowed on the Allen show, Drew Pearson is thinking of switching his "predictions of things to come" to the "gag of the week" with a boff payoff.

One commentator who has his script written for him has hired three gag writers to punch up his opinions on the political scene. He says "If Kaltenborn can stooge for Allen, I can solo on one good gag."

Anyway. . . . to get back to the farmer's wife. . . . I can't afford one.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

A couple of days ago I wrote a column about that new poison of which a very small dose can kill 180 million people in a jiffy.

Jean, my secretary, who always goes over my articles for mistakes in spelling and punctuation, didn't like the column.

"You usually give people a lift," she said, "but this one lets you down."

Well, I used the column, anyway, and I hope it did let you down when you read it.

You have to be down, you know, before you can get lifted.

When you get too high you don't need lifts any more, and it also is too hard to reach you.

I like to be optimistic, and I like to leave you with a smile and bring you some cheer.

But I don't want to be a Pollyanna or make one out of you. I am a great believer in hope.

But you hope for things to be better. So the worse things are the more hope you need to get through.

Life is pretty grim right now, there's no doubt about that.

You cannot shut your eyes to all the unhappiness and all the stupidity all around you.

You've got to face facts. That poison of which I spoke is a fact—a nasty, grim, fearsome fact.

But in that very grimness lies hope.

Human beings simply must realize that they cannot go on creating monsters of destruction without ever using them.

There is hope that some day a new world will be born without destroying the old one.

The very elements that are contained in the deadly poison may also contain the substance that will do away with sickness and misery.

The very brains that create wars for power and wealth can and will some day create wars for peace and love and happiness.

And I mean just what I say: There must be a war for peace—only that war is not fought with guns and bombs and planes and submarines, but with the mind and the heart and the soul.

Just as there has to be a will to win a war of force so there must be a will to win the war for peace.

You think of Germany or Italy or Japan as an enemy.

But there is a far more dangerous enemy right inside every human being—that enemy is YOU.

It is easier to lead an army of enemies than to lick that lone enemy within you.

There is no atom bomb to be victorious over yourself, no airplane, no submarine, no machinegun.

There is only your own power of will, your own faith, your own decency and your dignity as a human being.

Not one of the 180 million can be killed by the deadliest poison if every one of the 180 million will arm himself properly for victory over himself.

Just can't seem to understand the statement. . . . the reason of no meat today is because we are too much during the summer months. . . . Now we have given this statement a great deal of thought, tried to really understand. Sure we agree that it takes a long time for a thought to penetrate. . . . But surely by now some light should show through the fog. . . . But no, it just doesn't seem possible. Talked with many a person on the street. . . . those you know to be deep thinkers and they too could not lighten the picture.

A friend. . . . and then another and another came in yesterday and told about being away. They had a wonderful time, traveling and seeing the country side but all agreed that the food problem was most annoying. Some places they were lucky enough to find a ham. . . . a little here and there. . . . Even one reported on securing a nice steak. But of the group that made their way through Canada. . . . oh boy, the stories they are giving out.

Steak, plate, bowl, hamburger, chops. . . . makes you water at the mouth. . . . and these items are available in the country north of the USA. . . . not only available but at prices that we remember from a few years back.

No one is going to tell us that these United States are in worse condition than other nations. . . . no siree. . . . Maybe for a short time we are a wee bit off the track but public opinion will straighten out the picture.

Everyone should know what is going on. . . . everyone should be interested enough in what is going on to do something about correcting any great differences. One sure way to do your part. . . . vote. . . . regardless of the party. . . . VOTE. November 5th is the date here in Pennsylvania. . . . as in other places too.

If you would but take the time to check your neighbor on election day and ask him if his family has been to the polls. If everyone operates. . . . this election would be the biggest in years. Now is the time that we must stick together. . . . there will be some gain control who will stick us. . . . and where it hurts too.

Great Game Of Politics

Douglas Publicity And Supreme Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9. LAST spring, when Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson let go his blast at his colleague, Justice Hugo Black, the result was an exposure of a court condition that shocked a good many people in all parts of the country.

CONCEDING that Mr. Jackson had great provocation and that there was considerable substance to his charges of unethical practices, the question of whether he had done more harm than good in making public the internal troubles of the Supreme Bench was debatable. Upon one thing, however, there was general agreement—to wit, that the big problem of the new Chief Justice, Mr. Vinson, was to end the feuding on the court, restore harmony among the brethren, recover its traditional dignity and decorum without which it does not merit—and cannot get—the respect of either the bar or the people.

THERE is no evidence that the Chief Justice has not made progress along these lines and there is no evidence that he has. Mr. Jackson has returned from Nuremberg, where he should never have been asked to go, but the court is in recess and the relations between him and Mr. Black obviously will permit both to remain on the bench without flying at each other's throat at any rate, neither appears to have the remotest idea of resigning. In the course of time, the Chief Justice may evolve a smooth-working arrangement for all the bellicosity, of which the Messrs. Jackson and Black are only two.

HOWEVER, in one direction certainly no progress has been made at all. This is toward eliminating or lessening the public advertising of members of the court as candidates for political office. Many believe that this promotion of individual justices for nomination for the presidency or vice presidency, which has been more or less intermittently continued during the past six years, has done more to deepen the court as a whole than anything else. For one thing, it strikes directly at the traditional aloofness of the Supreme Bench from politics. For another, it detracts from the nonpartisan character of the court.

LARGELY this political promotion is centered around one man—Justice William O. Douglas, though quite recently some silly publicity has been given Chief Justice Vinson for the 1948 presidential nomination. However, for nearly eight years now, or ever since he was named by Mr. Roosevelt, Justice Douglas has been boomed first for one of these positions, then for the other. He has had a vast amount of publicity along these lines. Whenever there is any speculation about candidates, his radical friends rush forward his name.

IN BOTH the 1940 and 1944 Democratic conventions it was much discussed for Vice President. And now, in 1946, the Douglas for President publicity has broken out again in a big way. A short time ago two national radio broadcasters dealt with the subject on the same night. One declared that Chairman Haney's real choice for 1948 is Mr. Douglas; the other asserted that the CIO and "liberal elements" now prefer Douglas to Roosevelt. Comments of a similar nature have appeared recently in a number of papers. The latest came last Sunday when a radio commentator declared that while Mr. Douglas did not want to run, the movement for him was so strong he would have to. When he says "I am not running," he is only saying that Douglas' political publicity first started, the judicial colleagues of Mr. Douglas earnestly deplored it and were disposed to put the blame partly on the politicians and partly on the press.

AT THAT time their belief was that this publicity was even more distasteful to Mr. Douglas than it was to them—but that there was nothing he could do about it. Long ago that idea was dropped. At least one of the justices who used to defend his court from "radicalism," held by most informed persons, that so far from liking this publicity Justice Douglas likes it very much—even, it has been suggested, encourages it. Certainly, he has taken no real step to discourage it. As things are now, it is clear that there will be a lot more of this Douglas for President or Vice President publicity. Apparently, it is just getting started.

THERE is no prospect whatever, at Mr. Douglas being nominated. His friends are all among the extreme left-wing elements. He has no political assets. The only chance he ever had in a Democratic convention was if Mr. Roosevelt, who was his friend, had insisted on him as his running mate. All Mr. Roosevelt did after he ditched Mr. Wallace in 1944, was to list Mr. Douglas as one who would be acceptable to him. Nothing can come of the present publicity except to convey to the people the idea that there are men on the court who are politically ambitious and want to get off—and that its aloofness from politics is a joke.

NO ONE will contend that this increases respect for, or enhances the dignity of, the court. Consider these things in this connection: Chief Justice Vinson, by convincing Mr. Douglas that this Douglas publicity does him no good and the court some harm, can induce Mr. Douglas more effectively to discourage the activities of his friends, he will have performed a useful service. No one thinks that the recent suggestion of himself as a presidential aspirant came directly or indirectly from Mr. Vinson. Nevertheless, some formula should be found to make this kind of unbridled political speculation about the court unprofitable. It is distinctly damaging.

YOUTHFUL AMBITIONS

I am sure you will be favorably impressed with the aspirations expressed by a girl 15 years old, in the following words:

"I am a girl of 15. I wrote you in 1945 about several different problems. I am very happy to be able to say these problems, with a lot of others, are no longer obstacles in my path."

"The human mind, and the way people act, or what causes them to act the way they do, has always been of interest to me. I will appreciate any advice you will give me on how to create and train a healthy, happy, intelligent mind. My heart's desire is to win the respect of others, both young and old, including small children. With God's help I have found nothing impossible. I'm willing to fight for anything that's right and good. I have been complimented a good number of times, by my teachers, boys and older people for thoughtful and sensible behavior, but this has far from satisfied me. God seems to have a goal for me that I have not yet reached."

Now it is openly proposed in the event that Henry Wallace cannot be nominated by the Democratic Party for the Presidency of this nation that a third Party be organized to support Wallace for President and Pepper for Vice President in 1948. The Communists in a wild assembly in New York have denounced that the Democratic Party accept Henry Wallace as its candidate for President at that time. All the fellow travelers in this country have their eyes now upon this pair of gentlemen.

Wallace is foot loose with no ties of government employ. Claude Pepper is still a Senator from Florida and while both men profess to be New Deal Democrats and followers of the policies of the late F.D.R., they are openly opposed to any of the ideas promulgated by President Truman. They are strong, to be sure, for the perpetuation of a Bureaucracy government; they are strong for social security; they evidence their desire for social security to pay to those who have no money, money derived from those who have. They both, in the present crisis of international affairs, would sell this nation down the river to the Russians. Their cry is one of appeasement. They seem to have forgotten entirely the famous apy-way, without seeming to feel superior or self-righteous.

Just keep observing the ideals and behavior of other young people whom you feel are worthy of you emulation. Study them as you would study a book. It will also try to feel interested in and enthusiastic about what others, especially others about your age, achieve. This interest and enthusiasm should help you win friends, since they help you to keep from thinking and talking about yourself. Moreover, it will help you to learn wholesome social skills which you can enjoy with others.

By all means you need to spend some time with other boys and girls of your age. When these young friends engage in behavior you consider wrong, you don't have to do as they do in order to win their eventual esteem, provided you quietly take that attitude. This is my way, without seeming to feel superior or self-righteous.

Demand Russians Register As Agents Of Foreign Power

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The New York Journal-American said Tuesday the justice department has demanded that 11 visiting Russians "register as agents of a foreign power."

The demand, the paper said, is an "unprecedented move to smoke out Soviet propagandists who come here as 'delegates' or 'tourists'."

The newspaper said the order warned of "possible legal proceedings" for failure to obey. It was directed against "six distinguished Russian delegates to the recent third American Slav Congress and five members of the Ukrainian cultural delegation to the congress."

The Journal-American said, however, that all 21 had refused to register and quoted a Russian consulate spokesman as saying they "had packed up, cancelled future appearances and are awaiting the first chance to go back."

The paper said the Russian spokesman added that the Soviet embassy in Washington was "taking the matter up with the U. S. government."

"The Russian delegation included Alexander Kornelchuk, playwright, who won the Stalin prize in 1941. Kornelchuk was formerly Ukraine foreign commissar and a Soviet vice-commissar for foreign affairs."

"Others in the delegation are: Gen. Vasily Koslov, who led a White Russian partisan detachment in the war; Lt. Gen. Alexander Gundorov, president of the all-Slav committee; Lydia Volnova, former secretary of the Anti-Fascist League of Russian Youth; Prof. Timofei Gorgunov of White Russia and Alexander Yegunov, an engineer."

Agents Of Allied Governments Must Register In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The Justice department announced that at the direction of President Truman agents of Allied governments will henceforth be required to file public registration statements under the foreign agents registration act.

Attorney General Tom C. Clark declared that President Truman directed the cancellation of this wartime policy in a letter dated Sept. 30.

"UNBLOCK" your DIGESTIVE TRACT

And Stop Dosing Your Stomach With Soda and Alkalizers

Don't expect to get real relief from headache, sour stomach, gas and bad breath by taking soda and other alkalizers if the true cause of your trouble is constipation. In this case, your real trouble is not in the stomach at all. But in the intestinal tract where 80% of your food is digested. And when the lower part gets blocked food may fail to digest properly.

What you want for real relief is something to "unblock" your lower intestinal tract. Something to clean it out effectively—help Nature get back on her feet.

HANESKNIT gives value

"I thought our budget would take a beating on underwear for Tom. But Mother and I found some real values. She told me the Hanes label has meant quality knitting ever since she was married. And was Tom pleased! So I learned about husbands—and husbandry."

Many men like this all-knit combination. A Hanes short-sleeve Undershirt, for snug cool-weather comfort. Teamed up with the Hanes Fig-Leaf Brief, whose exclusive construction gives gentle athletic support.

For sports or for outdoor work, men who have worn them appreciate the warmth of Hanes Union-Suits. Fleecy cotton. Accurate trunk-length and chest-width sizes. Won't pinch or pull. . . . P. H. Hanes Knitting Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Pennsy Freight Conductor Held In Heavy Looting

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Police were confident today that the arrest of a Pennsylvania railroad freight conductor would solve thefts of $100,000 in merchandise from the carrier's Greenwich yards in this city.

The suspect, William E. Hamilton, 35, of Camden, N. J., was picked up while allegedly trying to sell two pieces of grinding machinery stolen from the yards. He is being held in Camden pending extradition. Camden authorities, after contacting Pennsylvania railroad police, said the arrest may lead to others which would clear up a series of robberies of liquor, machinery, tires and other goods since January 1.

The State of Deseret was the name given by the Mormons in 1849 to their settlement in the present state of Utah. This name was taken from the Book of Mormon and meant "land of the honey bee." In 1850, however, Congress created the state of Utah, and the old name fell into disuse.

Steal 14 Batteries, Rifles, Shotgun, Tubes

State police of the New Castle substation are searching for burglars who stole approximately $500 worth of auto accessories from the garage of Michael and John Lapinsky at Princeton sometime after 2 a. m. Tuesday.

Among the accessories stolen were 14 storage batteries, gas heater for an auto, three rifles, a shotgun, spotlight, some inner tubes and other articles.

Sheriff Hears Of Vandalism

Several Instances In County Have Been Reported To Sheriff Coen This Week

OTHER NEWS OF COURT HOUSE

Several instances of vandalism, of a rather vicious nature, evidently induced by the approach of the Halloween season have been reported to Sheriff Frank L. Coen this week.

In one case, youths aged around 14 to 16 years of age, went to the home of a rural resident, who was confined to his home by illness, upset his outbuildings, and tore off his porch steps.

Other cases have been reported, of the youths putting shocks of corn, filled with large stones, or logs out onto the highway, where they were run into by motorists, with disastrous results to their cars. If you see a shock of corn lying out on the road, do not run into it, the sheriff warns. It may be camouflaging a big boulder or tree trunk.

Dickerson alleges that the defendant struck him as he was walking on the berm of the highway, causing a fracture of the right leg and right arm, and that it was necessary to place a plate in his leg.

Twenty-eight divorce cases are scheduled for hearing on Friday, October 11, before Judges W. Walter Braham and John G. Lamoree, when both court rooms will be in use for this purpose. There are fourteen cases to be heard by each judge.

Sheriff Frank L. Coen is able to be about his duties again after being confined to bed for several days with an attack of grip.

Evidently some of the elders are taking a leaf out of the page of the younger generation, the ages of those making application to get married, at least in yesterday's group were well above the 20 mark with only one exception. That was where a youth of 17 was applying for a license to wed a damsel of 16.

late Prime Minister of Great Britain, Mr. Chamberlain, accepted the promises of Hitler. The promises of Stalin and Molotov are not worth any more than the promises of Hitler.

We are now embarked on this United Nations affair—whether wisely or unwisely, is not as yet known. The isolationists have been tied down for some time. The people of this nation have forgotten Henry Cabot Lodge and his fight against the United States entering into the League of Nations after World War No. 1, and we have joyfully plunged into a new League of Nations, referred to as the United Nations.

Mr. Wallace was a great admirer of F. D. R. and he in company with the rest of the big-wigs in Washington have swallowed the United Nations bait, hook and sinker, and it looks as though it was going to be a "sinker." Mr. Byrnes and the State department are having one tremendous job to make the United Nations work. And now Russia has demanded that our marines get out of China and out of Italy.

out of all Europe, in fact, and that the British get out of Greece and Iran and Asia, threatening to take the matter up with the General Council of the United Nations, while their military forces dominate Yugoslavia, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and Poland. It is a fine mess we find ourselves in. Henry Wallace, the Communist, wants to appease Stalin, and the Communists want Stalin to dictate the policies of the United States of America.

Will we stand for it?

LABOR PROBLEMS BESET ENGLAND'S ROYAL FAMILY

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Labor problems beset the Royal family's Buckingham Palace anew Tuesday when charwomen demanded wage increases and shorter hours.

Victor Carvell, general secretary of the Civil Service Union, said, "the Royal household should be among the best of employers. The staff there, however, sometimes works the longest hours."

The union asked and obtained wage increases for most of the palace workers last June but the cleaning women were left out.

WE'RE BREAKING INSTALLATION RECORDS EVERY MONTH

New demand continues but shortages still plague us

DEMAND FOR TELEPHONE SERVICE—new demand—continues to rip through the ceilings of all previous highs in the company's history, smashing all records, shattering all predictions, upsetting all calculations.

There seems to be no telling how much higher it may soar.

Needless to say, it keeps us stepping . . . for almost as fast as telephone service is provided for some, it is demanded by others; and almost as fast as old names are removed from our waiting lists, new names are added to them.

During the first post-war year, for example, we took more than 190,000 names off Pennsylvania waiting lists, only to find that new demand had added 160,000 more.

But We're Making Headway . . .

Actually, we're making headway faster than we thought possible . . . and even in the face of unprecedented demand and continuing shortages of such basic materials as copper and lead and tin and zinc and steel and lumber and paper and textiles, we're breaking our own installation records every month.

. . . And Faster Headway Lies Ahead

This Fall and Winter and next Spring we'll make huge additions to our Pennsylvania plant, spending millions more of the 150 millions that we have earmarked for our expansion program, providing enough new facilities to take a big chunk out of our waiting lists—to make telephone service available for thousands who are waiting.

Meanwhile, we want you to remember that we have the will, the know-how, and the organization to make every minute count.

The day can't come soon enough when we shall be able to offer the world's finest telephone service to anyone who wants it anywhere in the territory we serve.

Auto Inspection Need Is Greater Than Ever Before

With a mechanically defective vehicle now turning up in 17 per cent of all fatal automobile accidents, the need for adequate and mandatory periodic inspections of motor vehicles is more urgent today than ever before, according to safety specialists of the National Conservation Bureau, accident prevention division of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives.

"The time to repair faulty brakes or nervous steering equipment is before some one gets killed, not afterward," declares Julien H. Harvey, nationally prominent safety leader and managing director of the National Conservation Bureau. "One unfortunate commentary about the American temperament is that so often we fail to correct dangerous faults until some one has paid for the negligence with their life."

"America builds the safest automobiles in the world. But even a good car will develop weaknesses under the wear and tear of modern driving. Of course, you can't convince the average independent American that anything is wrong with his car until something snaps. Then it might cost him or some other person his life. As a sheer matter of public safety, therefore, some states compel all drivers to take their car to an official inspection station at least once a year, have it examined for dangerous defects, and have any such defects corrected promptly."

Car Inspection

"Pennsylvania has such a law. It requires all motorists to drive their car into an inspection station twice a year. To make it as convenient as possible, 7,000 private automobile dealers and garages have been designated by the state as official inspection stations and they are required to live up to rigid standards. They are supervised by 40 state police officers who have been especially trained for the work and devote all of their time to maintaining the highest possible levels of service and mechanical ability.

"Yet, despite all of the effort Pennsylvania is thus making to assure the safe mechanical condition of cars using its streets and highways, a recent official check by the International Association of Chiefs of Police revealed that 36.3 per cent of the motor vehicles in the state were defective. This does not mean that the inspection stations failed to perform their duties properly. It simply illustrates how rapidly a car's equipment can develop faults—particularly the over-age cars that are in use today. Just imagine what the fatality rate in Pennsylvania probably would be if the state had no mandatory periodic inspection law."

"Can anything be done to improve motor vehicle inspection in Pennsylvania? I dare say there isn't a system in the country that can't be improved from time to time, in the light of experience. If I offered any suggestion at all it would be that 40 police officers, regardless of how good they admittedly are, can hardly do the best job when they have to supervise 7,000 inspection stations. Simple arithmetic shows that each man has to handle 175 stations. That is asking a lot. Even twice the number of supervisors would still have their hands full."

Does Save Lives

"Of this, however, we all may be sure. Mandatory periodic inspection of motor vehicles does save lives, prevents injuries and conserves property. In other words, it prevents accidents. The record clearly and unmistakably proves that the introduction of these inspections unfailingly has been followed, state after state, by a material reduction of accidents. New Jersey, for instance, chalked up a 30 per cent reduction in accidents after inspections became mandatory. Pennsylvania was one of the first states to adopt the system and I do not have comparative statistics back that far.

"During the war some states, in order to conserve gasoline, let down on their inspection requirements. Pennsylvania was not one of them. Those that did, however, have returned to normal and we hope to see the system extended to all of the states. It probably never will be possible to keep all motor vehicles mechanically safe, but the more of them we do maintain in proper running condition, the fewer deaths and injuries we will see on our streets and highways."

TO PUBLISH U. S. VIEWS ON RUSSIAN DARDANELLES CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson said today that the United States hopes shortly to set forth this nation's views on Russian claims on the Dardanelles.

The U. S. views will deal primarily with Moscow's proposal to take up with Turkey alone the Soviet demand to put the straits under the control of the four Black sea powers and to join with Turkey in fortifying them.

Acheson labeled as incorrect reports from Ankara that the United States had delivered a note on the subject to the Turkish foreign office through the U. S. embassy.

Laxity In Wheeling Scored By Jurist

Judge David McKee Denounces
'Wide-Open Policy' In City
Of Wheeling

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 9.—(INS)—Judge David McKee Tuesday went on record as denouncing Wheeling's "wide-open" policy at the opening session of the October term of the Ohio County Intermediate Court.

Judge McKee in his charge to the grand jury, bluntly asserted that the city's policy of tolerating violations of the law in return for revenue was setting an example for law enforcement officers to accept graft.

The jurist charged that "we are wide open for every crime in the books," and cited increased juvenile delinquency and crime as the direct result of the city's methods.

Judge McKee declared that "occasionally offenders are charged with ordinance violations for which they are fined. Offenders, he said, regard fines as a fee and "never stop violating" the law.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Around Hollywood

By JOHN TODD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 9.—(INS)—He-man Alan Ladd is back in town for the winter after a summer of roughing it on his 25-acre ranch in Hidden Valley.

Alan loves the outdoor life, but he conceded today there was one thing that got him down a trifle—the rattlesnakes.

"There are a lot of them up there," he said, "why, they got so bad I had to pack a gun to be on the safe side. I even had to have one of my men wear a gun, too."

Killed 14 In Eight Days
"There was one period when we killed 14 of them in eight days, big ones, too."

Alan was looking both bronzed and in the pink when your reporter dropped in to see him on the set of "The Big Hunt" at Paramount.

"Yes, I'm feeling fine," he said, "I love the life out there."

Alan said ultimately the ranch will be the permanent home of the Ladd family.

"It's only 45 miles out and then when they get the freeways built, it won't take any time at all to get to the studio," he explained.

"The house on the place actually burned down 17 years ago and nothing ever was done about it. Of course, with the material situation being what it is, we don't know when we're going to be able to build."

Remodeled Barn
"For the time being we've remodeled the big barn into living quarters and it serves very well."

"We took the space of three stalls to make into a living room. We converted other stalls into a kitchen, bathroom and a couple of bedrooms. It's worked out very well and it's quite comfortable."

Alan said his aim is to breed horses.

"I'm going to put in a permanent pasture," he said, "you can handle many more head that way."

"I tried to put one in late last winter. But it didn't take. I counted on rain that I didn't get. But, I'll try again."

"I've got to go out and get my face slapped by Dorothy Lamour—she's supposed to give me a pip," he said with a laugh.

She did!

Croton Boys Enjoy New Type Of Game

Good Safety Record Enjoyed At
Croton Grade School With No
Children Being Injured

If all the school boys throughout the city went all out for sports like the boys at the Croton Avenue grade school, little trouble would be experienced in developing future football teams at the Senior High school.

Tuesday afternoon, a reporter stopping at the Croton school, found the 26 boys of Grade 6 of the school engaging in a new type of game, using the football as they played.

Miss Mildred Sargeant was directing the boys as they played.

The boys would line up and each would have an opportunity of kicking the ball, while others attempted to catch it. If the ball was caught, the kicker was out, but if it was missed by the catcher, he would run to the base and return to his original position, if he were not tabbed with the ball before returning.

The enthusiasm shown over the game revealed that the boys of the grade were real sportsmen and were eagerly awaiting the time when they would be able to do their stuff on the gridiron.

Miss Sargeant reported that the school has enjoyed an unusually good safety record during the past few years, in spite of the heavy flow of traffic past the building.

Safety is stressed at all times, with the result that no child has been struck by an auto for a number of years, while going to school or returning to their homes.

A safety man is at the school daily from 8:30 to 9 a. m. at the noon hour and from 3:45 to 4:15 p. m. to operate the traffic light at the busy intersection so that the boys and girls can cross the street safely.

Quiet Entry Into England Is Aim Of Duke, Duchess

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor will attempt to slip quietly into England this Friday.

The British government will cooperate in an effort to avoid repetition of the scenes which caused unfavorable comment during the duke's last visit earlier this year.

According to present plans, the duke and duchess will motor to Calais on Friday afternoon to board the cross-channel steamer "Canterbury" for Dover.

While the boat will carry its usual full complement of passengers, the Windsors are expected to remain in their private cabin during the hour crossing.

On arriving at Dover, they will be quickly cleared through post formalities and will go by automobile direct to Edinam Lodge, the Earl of Dudley's estate at Sunningdale.

Port authorities at Dover have been instructed to try to prevent reporters and photographers from getting on the pier.

Heirens Becomes 'Very Moody' After Month In Prison

JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 9.—(INS)—William Heirens, 17-year-old confessed killer of Suzanne Degnan and two women, was classified today by his jailers in the Illinois penitentiary prison as "very moody" after the first month of his long sentence.

Warden Joseph E. Regan said yesterday that the former University of Chicago student apparently misses the publicity he received and realizes he "has just become a number among several thousand other numbers."

Regan said that the slayer of the 6-year-old Degnan child, ex-Wave Frances Brown and Mrs. Josephine Ross has told guards on several occasions that he will commit suicide.

Heirens will be held in the prison's observation clinic for at least another 30 days before he is classified and permanently assigned to duty.

a Tip

to husbands who appreciate good cooking

YOU ease back in your chair a little, light up a smoke and take a sip of your second cup of coffee. Man, it sure is relaxing to eat a good dinner!

Ever wonder how your wife cooks those wonderful meals?

Well, in spite of what some ad writers say, it's no easy job. First, there's planning. Sure she knows your favorites—but she has to mix 'em up a bit or they wouldn't be favorites very long. Then there's shopping. Chances are, these days, she has to cover a lot of stores and then make a fast change in plans because what she'd like to buy can't be found. And, unless you're a lot more flush than most fellows, she has the very dickens of a time balancing the food budget, too.

After this comes the know-how with the recipes. Just the right touch of this and that. A little too much of this, or not enough of that—and—bloody!—there goes your nice dinner. But your wife's a good cook—she remembers more details than you'll find in an O.P.A. directive—so you're pretty safe here.

Comes the final step. The actual cooking of the food. And if she has to get along with an old jalopy of a stove, she's certainly in for a rough time. Watching things every minute. Making a lot of fast calculations mixed up with some darn good guessing. In doubt about the results right up to the finish. By the time she gets that dinner on the table, she's likely to be wondering if it's worth while after all.

Sure—being a good cook has its compensations. She gets a lot of real satisfaction in your enjoyment of her cooking . . . in seeing that you and the kids are well fed . . . in being able to have super-special meals for your friends. But oh brother!—if she doesn't have a modern automatic Gas range, how she'd like to send that old stove to the junk pile and get one of those beautiful new ranges.

What a help that would be!

And if you take this tip to heart . . .

Then take your wife on a little shopping trip to your Gas Company office or to Registered Gas Appliance Dealers. You'll be able to see some of the new Gas ranges. And if you make your decision now, you'll be sure of earliest delivery.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—A rocket radio capable of transmitting signals from the earth to the moon to be ready within 18 months was forecast by Westinghouse Electric company scientists. Dr. J. A. Hutch-

Predict Ample Turkey Crop For Holiday Season

Despite Meat Shortage Turkey Supply Foreseen As Adequate For Holidays

OTHER FARM NEWS FROM HARRISBURG

HARRISBURG, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The state agriculture department today forecast an adequate supply of turkeys for the holiday season despite the unseasonable demand for fowl as a result of the meat shortage.

The 1946 turkey crop was estimated to be five per cent under the 1945 record, but the majority of birds were not expected to be ready for market until November. Approximately 1,586,000 turkeys were being produced in Pennsylvania, the department reported.

"The production goal for turkeys was fixed at the 1,670,000 bird level of 1945," an official stated, "but growers were forced to reduce due to the high price and scarcity of feed."

Nationally, the output has dropped nine per cent from last year's yield, the spokesman said. It was estimated at 41 million birds.

He predicted larger turkey shipments would come from the west since army calls for the holiday poultry meat were reduced.

"Relieved of that monopolizing market, western growers can now guarantee enough fowl for eastern consumers," he asserted.

Demand For Birds
Markets reported increased demands for split birds to suit the needs of small families, the spokesman said.

There was little danger that Pennsylvania-bred birds intended for holiday sales would be shipped to the market prematurely, the official said, since they generally attained proper plumpness during early winter as a natural course of self protection against the cold.

The state agriculture department has reported that millers were unable to meet demands for by-product feeds despite the removal of ceiling prices.

Wheat millfeed production amounted to 118,000 tons last week, the largest output since March, but the supplies were being rapidly dissipated to fill standing orders, the AAA reported.

Outputs of linseed and soybean meals were low, the triple-A said, while linseed meal yields were "insufficient to meet allocations."

"Demand for all other by-product feeds is above supply," the agency reported. It is a sub-division of the U. S. agriculture department.

Meals Being Held
It was indicated some meals, such as alfalfa meal, were being held until producers could obtain prices above former ceiling rates, the AAA stated.

Turkey growers from 20 northeast Pennsylvania counties will attend a turkey field day October 11 at Light Street, Columbia county.

Visiting growers will have opportunity for inspecting the entire set-up, generally regarded as one of the best for turkey production in this section. Dressing rooms, where at the height of the season up to 650 birds are processed in eight hours, will be among the points of interest. Brooder systems and incubators of 14,000 egg capacity which hatch around 50,000 poulters each season will be other interesting stops.

TEST NEW RATONS

FALL CARE IMPROVES NEXT YEAR'S PASTURE

Many permanent pastures in Lawrence county are quite well eaten down. Grazing on short, dried-up pasture does cows little good. They may use up more energy looking for feed than they get in nourishment.

With plenty of hay in most barns and silos filled, barn feeding might just as well start now rather than let the cows get thin, the pasture damaged, and the top of the silage spoiled and wasted.

Grasses and clovers, which are allowed to make some fall growth go into the winter with a stronger root system and a better ground cover. They will be injured less by winter weather, will start growth earlier in spring, be more vigorous, and produce much more next year than if they are pastured the remainder of this season.

Where grain stubble carries a heavy growth of clover, it may be better to graze some of it off to reduce the danger of smothering over winter. This does not mean that it should be pastured closely. Alfalfa, especially in new seedings, generally is injured by fall grazing.

Ladino clover pastures particularly should be given a good chance to grow for about a month before cold weather, or severe winter losses may result.

Weak, Watery Blood Blamed for Making Men and Women Look and Feel Older THAN THEIR YEARS

How do you feel at the end of a day? Is that old time pep and drive lacking? Have you checked-up on your blood strength lately? Thousands now regain glowing good looks and vitality through the release of vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a general run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have positively proven that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloating and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Opening Play In Children's Series 'Little Lee Bo-Bo'

First Play By Pittsburgh Children's Theater To Be Presented
October 18

Opening play in the series of children's plays which Grace Price Productions will present here in the senior high school auditorium on Friday, October 18, at 7:30 p.m. is "Little Lee Bo-Bo, Detective for Chinatown" by Rose Hum Lee and Charlotte Chorpennig.

The latter is well-known to audiences here as at least one of her plays has been included in the Children's Theater repertory each season.

Rose Hum Lee, her collaborator, is a product of two civilizations, reared by Chinese parents in the classics and traditions of China in America's Northwest. Behind her plays is a desire to promote understanding between Chinese and Americans.

This first play in the Pittsburgh Children's Theater series for children sponsored here by the Federation Junior club, is one of excitement and suspense, the story of a little Chinese-American girl who tracks down a thief who has stolen a precious statue from a curio shop in Chinatown in Los Angeles.

A very special treat this year in the series of four productions will be a performance of "Daniel Boone" presented by Edwin Strawbridge, to be given here in the post-holiday season.

It is in the form of a dance play.

a ballet with dialogue, performed by Mr. Strawbridge and his company of professional dancers from New York. Members of the Federation Junior club committee in charge of arrangements for the play series are Mrs. Joseph W. Pearson, chairman, Mrs. Marshall G. Matheny, Mrs. Arthur I. Mackey, Mrs. A. J. Brincko, Mrs. Louis Hazen, Miss Dorothy Long and Miss Margaret G. Brown, assisted by committees of club members. Miss Reba Sines is Federation Junior club president.

Course On Heating Salesmanship Aids National Radiator

Complete Sales Training Course
Worked Out After Research
Of Year Or More

Looking forward to the many thousands of post war homes that are to be built in this country and to the heating comforts of homes already built, executives of the National Radiator Corporation have been working for a long time on the problem of merchandising and heating products with the result that today Robert S. Waters, president of the company, announced that the first real course in "heating salesmanship" has been completed and ready for presentation to men throughout the country.

An industry-wide survey to determine the most practical approach to the problem, revealed that many contractors throughout the country had been using planned sales methods, but very few had ever executed a complete sales training program among their personnel, thus the intensive research on the problem by the National Radiator company. The completed program required a year's research before it was ready to be presented to the public.

One of the first companies to sponsor such a program, President Waters stated his company was more than proud to take this step which will bring untold benefit and comfort to the many thousands of home owners throughout the United States, realizing that the firm's responsibility did not just end with the manufacture of the heating equipment.

Jaul B. Holmes, manager of sales, heating division of the Radiator company, stated that many home owners have the mistaken idea that their heating plant is "out of sight—out of mind" and pay very little attention to it, looking after the more glamorous needs of the family. He continued that the company is interested in the health and welfare of every family, thus the unending and costly research indicated in by the company to make the course available to all who desire to study it.

The Radiator company's program was presented first in August to the company's heating division sales personnel as a feature of a general sales meeting held in Johnstown, Pa., after which the presentation was made by salesmen in key cities of the country. A descriptive brochure has been published by the company describing the course in "heating salesmanship" in detail.

The course which is made up of five assignments, is being handled through LaSalle university at Chicago, is bringing favorable comment from all quarters, it has been revealed.

NATIONAL Employ the Physically Handicapped WEEK — October 6 to 12

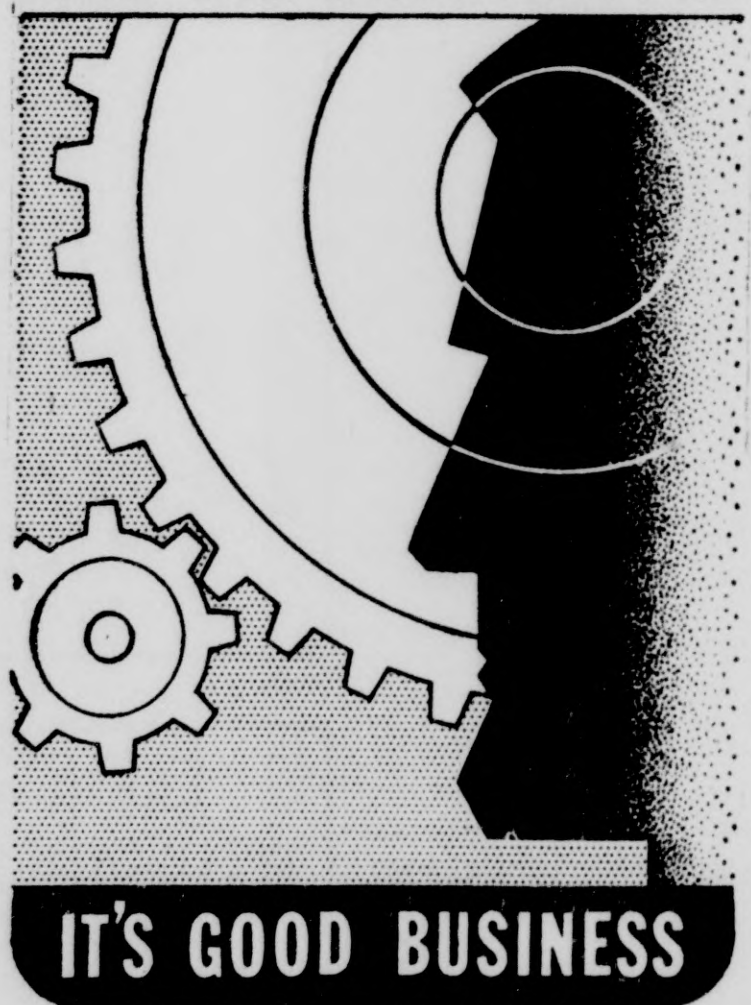

By Act of Congress and by Presidential Proclamation

Experience proves it's good business to hire disabled Veterans

Disabled veterans do "fit in" when employed in jobs they are capable of filling—jobs which use their abilities. No job requires all of the abilities of a worker. For any given job there are handicapped workers who are fully qualified to meet all the job requirements. Employers really benefit through increased production when disabled veterans are employed in the RIGHT jobs.

DISABLED VETERANS WANT EQUAL OPPORTUNITY TO COMPETE FOR JOBS THEY CAN FILL.
THEY WANT AN EQUAL CHANCE IN LIFE!

HIRE THE HANDICAPPED

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS

If You're An EMPLOYER . . .

A better employee returned today . . . bringing his new skills, his ingenuity and tremendous determination . . . qualities you're always in the market for. His disability is overwhelmingly outweighed by his capabilities. Careful surveys show the "impaired workers" produce more and stay with the job longer than the unimpaired. First, determine the kind of man you need—the skills, training, background that would be most helpful to you. Then contact your local branch of the United States Employment Service.

If You're A DISABLED VETERAN . . .

It's going to be a busy world for the next few years. Your skills and energies are as desperately needed by your community and your country as they were during the war. Employers need good men. Never mind your disability; it's your capabilities the hard-headed business man is interested in. Just get the right job . . . an important job where you can put in a full day's work and be proud of the results. Cooperate with the USES. It's helping that employer locate you . . . the man he needs.

Cardinals And Red Sox Continue Series Play Today

Cultured Boston Goes Crazy Over First Series In 28 Years

SERIES DEADLOCKED AT ONE GAME EACH

By DAVID J. WALSH (International News Service Sports Writer)
BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The night, a city made moderately loco by a common emotion milled, eddied, galled, grappled, hand-to-hand and sang a plaintive serenade to the dawn as Boston went forth to meet an hour of nigh drama.

For this staid citadel of culture and codfish cakes was having a civic competition today as the 1946 world series between the St. Louis Cardinals and the revered Boston Red Sox shifted operations to the eastern front for its third meeting between the pair. It will be a contest of conspicuous importance.

Red Sox On Spot
It was to do more than break the one-to-one deadlock brought about by the first two games in St. Louis; more, too, than establish whether the Red Sox were the over-rated bums the less ardent of their admirers have been calling them.

Precisely it was to provide the axis upon which the turn of a seven-game series must revolve. Not quite comparable, perhaps, with the bloody and the Belgian Bulge or even the rampant worm. But an episode calculated notwithstanding to profoundly stir a people already wrought up by the prospect of witnessing a world series for the first time in 28 years.

Rain In Air
Even the weatherman seemed to be having porcupines for breakfast, while issuing agitated bulletins hourly. Originally, the prospect seemed to call for rain, frigid temperatures and a light touch or two from the tip of the Florida hurricane.

Upon taking further soundings, however, it was stated that "rain would not occur before nightfall" and that, while a 40-mile-an-hour wind was in the offing, it would be possible to play the game, as scheduled.

There were to be no overnight changes in the pitching plans of rival Managers Cronin and Dyer, with the result that Dave Ferriss, 25-game winner for the Sox, was to oppose Little Murray Dickson, who won 14 and lost six for the Cards during the regular season of play.

Cloudy And Cool In Boston Today

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(INS)—The Weather Bureau promised today that cloudy and cool weather would prevail for the third game of the world series this afternoon at Fenway Park.

Thickening cloudiness and continued cool today, highest temperature about 52 degrees. Rain beginning this evening and continuing until early Thursday afternoon.

Union High Squad Resumes Training

Coach Bob Dinsmore Has Instilled Zip In Union High's Attack

MEET ZELIENOPLE AWAY ON FRIDAY

Coach Bob Dinsmore's Scotties reported for practice Tuesday evening after a long rest following the victory over Bessemer high last Friday. Dinsmore's boys are determined to stay in the win column when they travel to Zelenople to play under the lights at 8 o'clock this Friday night.

With no apparent injuries as a result of the Bessemer game and in better condition and higher spirits than they have been all season, the fighting Blue Devils from Union township are hoping to tack a third victory on their list of the winning score. In fact, the Scotties can and will use a passing attack for long gains against Zelenople.

Union Confident
Having scouted the Butler County team, Union's coaches have been able to iron out the weak points in the Scotland Lane team. The locals will be using every trick play in the bag to beddle their hosts.

Reports from ex-Unionites say that the team Zelenople will see on their field come Friday night will be one of the finest teams to visit there in years. Union boasts of a line that can hold when the going gets tough and a string of backs that can carry the mail. Schell who takes over for Rex Conti at quarterback when he needs a rest, is one of the smartest signal blockers in the Class B circuit.

Anthony Conti who spells off Jim Bigley at fullback only needs more experience. Roberts and Radabaugh in the half positions are boys any coach can be proud of. Smith and Fishaw, Union's ends will have plenty of pass catching to do this week and the two lads have glue in their mitts, it is reported.

Steelers Sign Ernie Bonelli

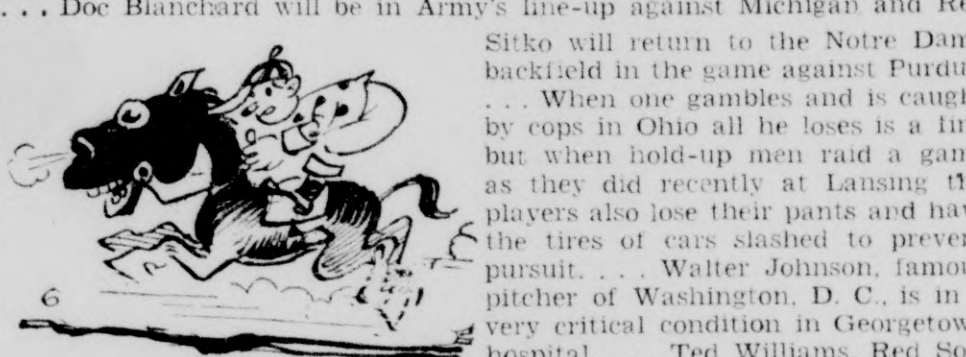

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Steelers Coach Jock Sutherland today said that Ernie Bonelli, former Pitt back, has been signed to a contract and probably will appear in Sunday's game against the Boston Yanks.

He was recently released by the Chicago Cardinals because he did not fit into the T formation style adopted by Coach Jimmy Conzelman.

Sutherland disclosed that tackle Joe Coomer will be out of the Steeler lineup indefinitely with torn ligaments in the left ankle and a badly bruised arm received in a New York Giants game last Sunday.

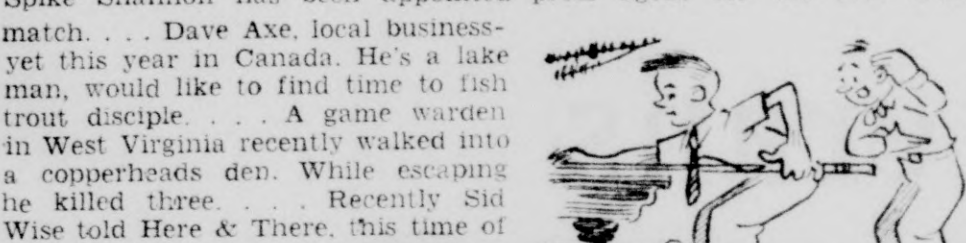

LARKSVILLE, a small anthracite coal mining village, will be in the spotlight with a brother vs. brother act at Pitt stadium, Saturday.

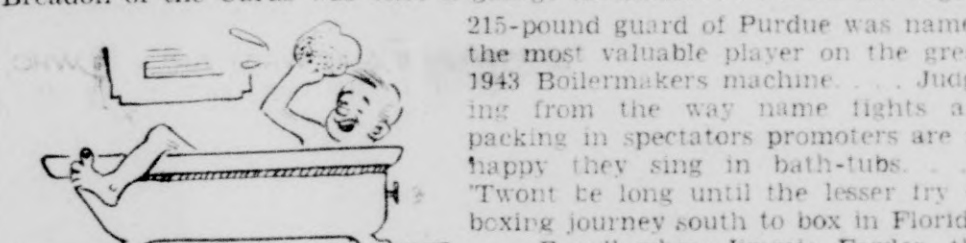

Tom will fullback for the Panthers and Leo will left end for Temple. Doc Blanchard will be in Army's line-up against Michigan and Red Sitko will return to the Notre Dame backfield in the game against Purdue. When one gambles and is caught by cops in Ohio all he loses is a fine but when hold-up men raid a game as they did recently at Lansing, the players also lose their pants and have the tires of cars slashed to prevent pursuit. Walter Johnson, famous pitcher of Washington, D. C., is in a very critical condition in Georgetown hospital. Ted Williams, Red Sox, was quoted by the Boston Traveler as stating: "It's a cinch I have been sold." He believes he is headed for the New York McPhallman although he would, if given the opportunity, land with Detroit. Jockey Gerald Gleason rode Takeitome and Advisory to wins on one day. Both horses are owned by W. V. Morgan, Wheeling, and his brother, Eddie, trans them both which made three doubles in one day at Wheeling Downs. British doubles team, A. J. Mottram and Mrs. Jean Mottram, won the mixed doubles title of the Pacific Coast Tennis championship by defeating Pierre Polizza, France, and Phyllis Hunger, San Francisco, 7-9, 6-3, 6-1, at San Francisco. Mike Nixon, former halfback for Pitt, has been added to the Steelers coaching staff. Hillsville Baseball club banqueted last night at Oakhurst. They were in the County Baseball circuit. Funeral services were held Monday for Henry Friska, Jr., 17-year-old son of Tulane's coach who died following a brain injury in a high school football game at Tulsa. John Mangino, Herman Steinbrink and Mac McConnell caught 51 bass, 10 pike and one muskie during their recent trip to Canada.

Roger W. Rowland vs. Bob Cunningham golf match which Bob won recently, two-up, netted more than $300 for the Margaret Henry Home.

Spike Shannon has been appointed press agent for the 1947 return match. Dave Axe, local business- yet this year in Canada. He's a lake man, would like to find time to fish trout disciple. A game warden in West Virginia recently walked into a copperheads den. While escaping he killed three. Recently Sid Wise told Here & There, this time of year turtles and frogs leave creeks and bury down beneath leaves. Investigating Here & There found a frog Sunday which did this. The frog's body was russet and a portion of its rear legs, green. Fritz Crisler is in his ninth year as grid mentor at Michigan. His teams have won 55 and lost 14 and tied in two during the past eight seasons. Judge John G. Lamoree is a graduate of Michigan. Attorney Ed Logan was a lineman at W & J in the early 1900's. Dr. Bill Horner who likes his fishing and hunting is an ex-member of the Panthers, having played there when Pop Warner was coach. Reports say billiards will go bigger than ever this winter. Because Maine deer damage claims will be almost double those of last year. Hunters are urged to sun farmland, this fall. Bill Reynolds, safety man, at the National Radiator and who once was a deputy sheriff, handled the ticket office for Bill Jolly when the throtleman branched out as a boxing promoter in the Old Armory, Neshannock avenue. That was in the days when Eddie Weygant handled Mickie Solomon, a clever boy. In Youngstown vicinity they predict that Eddie's son, who has played here, may hit the big show of baseball.

Cowden Moore, Nassau fire stone man, recently visited the city. Tom Yawkey of the Red Sox was an orphan at the age of seven. Tom Broadon of the Cards was once a garage mechanic. Dick Barwegen, 215-pound guard of Purdue was named the most valuable player on the great 1943 Boilermakers machine. Judging from the way name fights are packing in spectators promoters are so happy they sing in bath-tubs. 'Twant be long until the lesser fry of boxing journey south to box in Florida. Right now he is combining this fire inspector's job with that of veterans advisory committee duties. He has pitorized more than 1,200 terminal leave documents, he reports. The service is free. Paris Caney is tutoring Jimmy Maloney of Ellwood City, Jimmy boxed in several amateur bouts here. Reports state that Patsy Brannigan yet this fall will be pensioned by the city of Pittsburgh. He's an elevator man in the city-county building which causes the remark that Lawrence Dennis employment life is an up and down affair. He is the engineer of a building elevator here. Hub Wilson of Kay, Richards, saw Sugar Robinson elevator Ossie Harris and is now one of those who call Robinson a smooth human fighting machine. Sugar will box the ears off Levine in Cleveland, late this month. They say that Wesley Ward, one of the city's garbage collectors is a wiz at ticking the ivories of a piano. Harley Shoaf whose son boxed here several times, is pianoing in a Cleveland night club, reports state.

Temple And Oberlin Hamstrung By Strike

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—(INS)—Temple University's Owls and Oberlin college who will invade Pittsburgh Saturday have delayed their arrival into the Steel capital due to a power and hotel strike.

Coach Ray Morrison expects to bring his team from Philadelphia Saturday morning and go direct to Pitt Stadium where they will meet the Panthers. Oberlin college, which opens Carnegie Tech's postwar grid season at Forbes field, will drive to Beaver Falls Friday and stay overnight. They expect to come to Pittsburgh Saturday morning.

Wildcats Meet Evans City High

Battered Shenango Enters Last Half Of Card Against Strong Team Friday Night

Shenango High schools luckless Wildcats, yet to win their first game of the season, have another tough assignment Friday night when they meet Evans City under the lights at the latter's field.

The Nahas lads, who have dropped contests to Mercer, Avalon and Hopewell and have been tied by Zelenople, again are the underdogs against the once-defeated Butler countians.

Have Won Three
Evans City has whipped Bessemer, Union and Zelenople, losing their lone tilt to Ford City, 12-6, a Class A school. They rate big favorites to hand the Cats their fourth loss of the season.

Coaches Nahas, Susko and Dunlap will again overhaul the locals for the Friday game. Pleased with the resistance they displayed against the Hopewell Vikings, the Shenango mentors are testing many combinations to get some scoring pulled into the team. They have tallied but one touchdown in four contests.

Kick-off for the game has been set for 8:15 p. m.

Rodgers, Cotton And Jordan On Nominating Committee; Porter Resigns Secretaryship

Andrew Dadds acted as chairman at the October meeting of the Lawrence County Sportsman's Association last night in Neshannock hall, V. P. W. No. 315 and a committee consisting of W. Henry Rodgers, Kenney Cotton and Earl Jordan, was named as a nominating committee looking forward to nominees for men to direct the organization in 1947.

During the meeting, Mr. Reynolds of the Beaver Falls Sportsman's Association delivered a talk on stocking of fish.

E. E. Brown, delegate to the Sportsman's council, presented a list of resolutions which have been sponsored here and will be submitted to the northwest division of the federation of sportsmen.

Plan Turkey Shoot
The association voted to install electricity at the sportsman's farm near the Harbor and arrangements were made to hold a turkey shoot sometime near Thanksgiving day.

Game Protector William Overturn delivered a talk on safety while hunting and urged caution. He also told sportsmen that they should cooperate with farm land owners and said they should request an owner's permission before hunting on his land.

D. H. Porter presented his resignation as recording secretary and Mr. Cross was named to do the work for the remainder of the year. Mr. Dadds acted as chairman because of the absence of President Robert Lamoree and illness of Vice President J. E. Bell.

Game No. 411 will be played by Auburn's football Tigers when they meet Furman in a homecoming attraction in Auburn stadium at Auburn next Saturday afternoon.

Franklin Battles Ellwood Thursday

Coach Austin Cowmeadow Worried About Outcome At Ellwood Field

Ben Franklin Junior High football team has its work cut out for Thursday evening at Ellwood City under the lights, when they stack up against the Ellwood City Junior High eleven. The kickoff will occur at 7:45 o'clock.

Coach Austin Cowmeadow is plainly worried as he gets his 1946 Patriots ready for the Ellwood game. Undefeated in two starts this year against Beaver Falls and Farrell, the East Siders face a tough foe tomorrow evening. Ellwood is also undefeated in two games.

Ellwood Tough
"We are not in the best shape physically," Cowmeadow stated today. "Ellwood City will give us the toughest game to date." Cowmeadow continued, Ellwood has always been hard for Franklin to beat, and this year is no exception, they are big and fast.

The Franklin squad will windup their training today at the stadium for the big game.

Banquet Tuesday Fetes Indies Players For Play During Season

Hillsville baseball club, member of the Lawrence County League, was feted last night with a chicken and spaghetti banquet at a New Williams road cafe with over fifty present.

The affair was the annual wind-up dinner for the Indies who participated in the regular league play during the past summer.

Dining on sumptuous plates of fried chicken with all the trimmings and spaghetti, the players, club officials and supporters of the team had a highly enjoyable time. Music was furnished during the dinner.

Alec Samuels Speaks
Alec Samuels, president of the league, was the guest speaker of the evening, and he extolled the Indies for other fine sportsmanship and determination during the season.

Labeling the past season as one of the most successful ever held in the county, the local press said that even brighter prospects loom for 1947. He said he felt sure that the Hillsville club would always be one of the better organizations in the circuit, as they have been in the past.

Also on the speaking program were many of the Hillsville "old-timers" and members of the present club.

The banquet was arranged by Albert Marshall, a strong supporter of the team for a number of years.

Wives of Michigan State football players are planning special radio parties for dates on which their athlete husbands will be playing at Penn State and Kentucky.

New Castle Seeks Third Win Friday

Farrell Will Provide Plenty Of Competition To "Red Hurricanes"

"Red Hurricanes" Seek Sixth Victory Over Night Riders Friday

New Castle High "Red Hurricanes" football team is anxious to annex its third win of the year Friday at the stadium, when the card calls for them to face the Farrell Night Riders. The kickoff will be at 8 o'clock.

Having dropped the last three games, the Phil Bridenbaugh charges are anxious to get started in the winning column again. A victory over Farrell will give the locals a 500 average for the season to date, having won the first two of the program.

Farrell Desperate
Coach Hank Day and his Farrells are just as anxious to win one, being victoryless since the second game of the year, when they defeated Greenville 6 to 0. Farrell, like New Castle, has dropped the last three games.

Farrell has a fine passing attack that will both the locals no little. Farrell, like New Castle, is lacking in veteran material, which accounts for the showing to date no doubt.

Expect Big Crowd
Despite the record of both teams to date, the officials are looking for another big crowd Friday. Farrell will bring several hundred fans here for the game.

The big electric scoreboard is in process of being erected and will likely be in operation for either the Farrell game or the Erie Academy game. It was indicated by Faculty Manager Robert M. Mills today.

J. N. Earl McKenzie, ticket manager at senior high, announced today that all reserved seats for the New Castle-Farrell game have been sold out but that over 3,000 general admission tickets will go on sale at the stadium Friday night.

Make Fine Showing
Washington's display of power and strong line play against Sharon has stamped them as one of the dangerous junior high outfits in the district. Coach Douglas brought the boys back well after losing to Ellwood City, 14-6 in the opener.

Last week the Douglass-coached lads defeated Farrell's twin city rivals, the Sharon Tigers, 14-0, and are favored to emerge winners in the coming contest.

Bobby Lee Back In Uniform, But Lauro Sidelined

Injuries Continue To Hamper New Castle Boys On Pitt Team

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9.—Once again Trainer Howard Waite is the key man in the Pitt plans, as the Panthers begin preparations for their game with Temple at the Pitt stadium this Saturday. The Pitt hospital list having had more names added to it over the week-end, the coaching staff is now looking toward Waite for the green light.

Bobby Lee and Jack Smolic, the two injured tailbacks, are expected to don uniforms for the first time this week, and will begin the process of getting back into game condition. Neither will be ready for the Temple game, however.

Lauro Sidelined
Fullback Lindy Lauro is another on the inactive list, and he too will sit this Saturday's game out on the sidelines.

Biggest loss on the line is that of Lee Ward, the brilliant freshman pivot man. Ward was injured after intercepting a Notre Dame pass early in the first quarter, and again when he tried to start the second half.

Several lineup shifts are expected this week as Fesler juggles his men around to handle the various emergencies. Matt Gebel is expected to get the fullback assignment, Henry Clougherty will move up to the starting center post, and Leo Skladany is ready to start at left end again.

Blanchard Ready To Play Saturday

Dope straight from the mule's mouth has it that Felix (Doc) Blanchard, "Mr. Inside" of the Army football juggernaut, will be in the starting lineup when the Cadets battle Michigan Saturday.

Blanchard strained a leg ligament in the Villanova game, and sat on the sidelines as the Black and Gold defeated Oklahoma and Cornell. Army officials said that big "Doc" could have gone into the Cornell game but with a comfortable lead it was decided to give him an additional week's rest. His knee has completely healed.

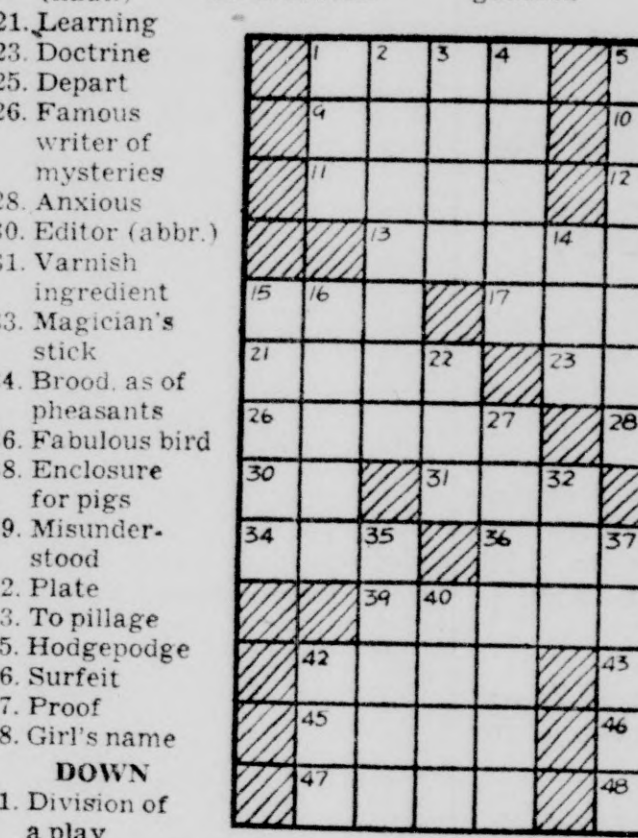

Herschel (Ug) Fuson, ex-center, who was hurt in the Oklahoma tilt, is ready to go and will be at right-half Saturday, giving the Cadets, with Davis and Tucker, the 14-karat backfield in the county.

Jarring John Kimbrough really earned that nickname. He is rated one of the greatest and hardest hitting All-American fullbacks of all time.

J. Cary Bachman, 18-year-old son of Head Football Coach Charlie Bachman of Michigan State college, is a senior star athlete at East Lansing High school.

Tentative Plans For City Building Given
Council Approval

Preliminary plans for the new city building to be erected on the Dana plot, North Jefferson and Grant streets, have been approved by Mayor John F. Haven and council colleagues and it is anticipated by city officials that restrictions on certain types of building will have been removed to permit construction in 1947.

While the structure will not be fancy it will be modern. The structure, which will front on North Jefferson street will have a main stone face entrance and the building will be of brick.

There will be an 11-foot basement, first floor of 11 feet and second floor of 10 feet. One of the features of the new municipal structure is that it will contain a public comfort station, open day and night.

In the basement will be cell blocks for both men and women, record room, property room, telephone booth, detectives bureau, a photographer's dark room, two detectives examination rooms, a police squad room equipped with showers, a kitchen and a boiler room.

On the first floor will be offices

Lions See Film On Stream Pollution

Progress Being Made Throughout
Nation In Purifying Streams

Lions club members saw an excellent film, prepared by the General Electric Company, showing the effects of stream pollution, and the steps which are being taken throughout the nation to remedy the situation, by installing sewage disposal plants.

Starting in 1900, the campaign to purify the streams of the country, has grown steadily until today, there are several thousand plants in operation. It was pointed out in the film, but there are still a great number more units needed, while many old ones need to be renewed. The film was shown by Clay Aibel, of the Pennsylvania Power Company.

Guests at the meeting included,

M. Elder, of Van Wert, O.; and Frank M. Craven, of Harlingen, Texas.

Two new members were admitted Tuesday. They were, John N. Cornelius, principal of the Oak street and Rose avenue schools; and Alex Brinko, salesman.

Reports are given on the show, "Life With Father", which will be presented in The Cathedral on Wednesday, October 23, showing a good response in the early ticket sale, and indicating a packed house for the production. The proceeds from which will be used to finance the club's work among the blind of the community.

BUILDERS WILL MEET TONIGHT

Members of the Order of Builders will have their semi-monthly meeting in The Cathedral this evening, at 7:30 o'clock.

Rigid Enforcement
Of OPA Promised

BUTLER, Pa., Oct. 9.—(INS)—A promise of prompt and rigid enforcement of OPA regulations was given to members of the Butler County Food Merchants association today after they threatened to engage in a black market meat war.

Irving M. Gruber, chief of the OPA meat enforcement division in Washington, said that merchants who have evidence of violations should turn it over to OPA officials. He did not comment on the merchants' threat to resort to black market methods themselves.

The food dealers, in a letter to Paul Porter, OPA administrator, declared that OPA regulations have been constantly violated and enforcement officials have done nothing about it.
